SOCIAL WORK

Bachelor of Social Work

The BSW program prepares graduates to enter generalist social work practice in various settings, including social service, government agencies, and mental health and health care settings. A distinctive feature of the Dalton State BSW program is its emphasis on preparing social workers to work competently with diverse individuals and groups. Graduates of the BSW program may apply for admission to Master of Social Work (MSW) programs at the advanced-standing level, shortening the length of time required to complete graduate study. The Dalton State College BSW program is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education.

Students must apply for admission to the Upper Division of the BSW program to take Junior- and Senior-level social work courses. Non-majors may take upper-division elective courses with the permission of the course instructor.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO BSW PROGRAM UPPER DIVISION

General Information

To apply to the BSW program, you must first be admitted to Dalton State College. Upon admission to DSC, you should declare Social Work as your major, so you will be assigned an advisor with the program. If you are currently a DSC student and are changing your major, please make certain you contact the BSW Program Director as soon as possible to ensure you are properly advised and enrolled in the required prerequisite lower division courses.

Admission to the BSW program is selective. Each applicant's qualifications, including his or her GPA, performance in lower division courses, recommendations, and essays, will be reviewed when considering the applicant for admission to the BSW program.

The BSW program admits a new cohort each spring for fall courses. Students cannot enter the cohort during any other semester. The admissions process opens in February of each year. Early admissions decisions are made in March and April, with final admissions made in May. Late admissions may be available as late as August before the beginning of the fall semester if space is available in the cohort.

Regular admission may be awarded upon successful completion of all lower division requirements. Provisional admission may be awarded for one semester to students who are enrolled in the final required courses of the BSW lower division. All lower-division coursework must be completed before the commencement of upper-division coursework.

The following requirements must be met for regular admission to the BSW program:

1. Completing all BSW lower division requirements at DSC or the equivalent at another institution.
2. A “B” or higher grade in all lower division social work courses (SOWK 2101, 2102, 2103, and 2104). (Effective fall 2021)
3. An overall GPA of 2.5
4. Completion of all individual volunteer service hours in SOWK 2103.
5. Completion of a background check as a part of SOWK 2103. (Effective fall 2021)

To apply for admission to the Upper Division, students must:

1. Meet with your social work advisor to obtain the admissions packet and verify successful completion of the lower division course of study.
2. Complete the admissions application.
3. Provide two letters of reference. This will include one professor recommendation (on the required form) and one letter of recommendation from a non-family member (employer is preferred).
4. Completion of the Social Work Code of Ethics quiz with a grade of 80%.
5. Completion of all portions of the application packet, including:
   - Acknowledgement of BSW fees
   - Acknowledgement of BSW mandatory training dates
   - Acknowledgement of BSW Field Education requirement
   - Completion of the Assessment of Professional Behaviors

If requested, applicants may be required to meet with the Admissions Committee for a pre-admission interview.

Additional Information

Students may elect to follow a two-year or three-year plan for completing Upper Division courses (60 semester hours). Courses have been arranged sequentially so that new learning builds on previous learning. Students should exercise care when registering for courses and be certain that they are following their approved program of study. A grade of C or better is required for all social work upper-division courses, and a B is required for 3400, 4995, 4996, and 4998 and 4999.

Transfer Students

The BSW Program welcomes transfer students. Students interested in transferring to DSC to complete the BSW should contact the BSW Program Director to obtain additional information and discuss their particular situations.

Questions?

For questions regarding the application process, students should see their BSW Advisor or contact the BSW Program Director at trice@daltonstate.edu.

Courses

SOWK 2101. The Social Work Profession. 3-0-3 Units.

This course covers the history of social welfare programs and services in the United States. Philosophical, religious, economic, and political perspectives on social welfare policies and the role of social workers in social welfare and social justice movements across history. (S) Prerequisites: ENGL 1101.

SOWK 2102. The Social Welfare Institution. 3-0-3 Units.

This course introduces social work students to a Service Learning modality framed within social work practice. Students will observe and analyze how social workers may work within social agencies to empower individuals and improve the well-being of others. The course will emphasize the role of community organizations in alleviating social injustice and meeting the needs of individuals impacted by social issues including poverty, racism, marginalization, service disparities, and lack of access. This course includes required individual volunteer service hours and service learning as a part of the course. These activities take place off-campus in social service and community organizations. (F) Prerequisites: SOWK 2101 and SOWK 2102.

SOWK 2103. Social Work Pract&Serv Learning. 3-2-3 Units.

This course provides an introduction to methods, skills, and procedures used in interviewing clients in a variety of practice settings. The course incorporates theory, research, and practice skills relevant to relationship building, the change process, and professional communication skills and techniques. Students will learn and practice professional interviewing, and communication skills and techniques. The course will consist of lecture and classroom experience as well as simulation laboratory activities. (S) Prerequisites: SOWK 2101, 2103
SOWK 3101. Human Diversity. 3-0-3 Units.
A general introduction to the concepts of diversity in the United States, including the various histories of oppression of minority groups. This course specifically covers diversity related to African-American, Appalachian, and Hispanic/Latino cultures. An introduction to cultural competence and the profession's code of ethics and commitment to diversity, equity, inclusion, and anti-racism. Prerequisites: Admission to the BSW upper division or permission of instructor.
Corequisites: SOWK 3102.

SOWK 3102. Human Behavior I. 3-0-3 Units.
An overview of theories of human behavior needed for generalist practice. An introduction to ecological systems theory and the ecological perspective in social work with orientation to micro, mezzo, and macro levels of understanding individuals and families across the lifespan. Prerequisites: Admission to the BSW upper division or permission of instructor.
Corequisites: SOWK 3101.

SOWK 3103. Human Behavior II. 3-0-3 Units.
The second of a two-course HBSE sequence is a study of the interaction of human behavior and the social environment with an emphasis on larger systems: groups, organizations, and communities utilizing the ecological and multi-level systems perspectives. Prerequisites: Admission to the BSW upper division or permission of instructor.
Corequisites: SOWK 3101.

SOWK 3201. Gen Practice of Social Work I. 3-0-3 Units.
Theory and practice of generalist social work. Knowledge, skills, and ethical principles needed for beginning social work practice. Introductory problem identification, interviewing, assessment, intervention and evaluation of practice with individuals and families from a person-in-environment perspective. Practice in alignment with the code of ethics, and professional writing. Requires demonstration of skills through simulation learning experiences. Corequisites: SOWK 3101, SOWK 3102 Prerequisites: Admission to upper division or permission of the instructor.
Corequisites: SOWK 3101, SOWK 3102

SOWK 3202. Gen Practice of Social Work II. 3-0-3 Units.
This course is intended to help students acquire the knowledge, values and skills to work successfully with groups on the micro, mezzo and macro levels. This course examines the dynamics of the small group. Different theoretical conceptualizations of the role of the social worker in the group are discussed. Concepts such as group norms, roles, and leadership are examined with a focus on social work values and ethics. There is a special focus on work with community and in community groups. Problem identification, interviewing, assessment, intervention and evaluation of practice with groups. Requires demonstration of skills through simulation learning experiences. Prerequisites: Admission to the BSW upper division, SOWK 3201.

SOWK 3300. Found. of Social Work Research. 3-0-3 Units.
Social work practitioners must be able to consume and understand research and apply information to practice. Social work practitioners must demonstrate the effectiveness of services they deliver to clients. Students will become competent in reading social work research and in the use of research in evaluation of practice. Students will be introduced to research problem formulation, design, data collection and analysis in order to understand qualitative and quantitative research methodologies. Prerequisites: Admission to the BSW upper division or permission of instructor; SOWK 3101, SOWK 3102, and SOWK 3302.

This course introduces the development and implementation of contemporary social welfare policies and service programs in the United States. Through this course, students critically analyze and document the policy making process. The course highlights the influence of social values on policy development and the differential allocation of material and social resources. The course emphasizes the how public policy impacts population groups and the concepts of social justice and equity. Knowledge, skills, and ethical principles for social work at the macro level. Students will practice policy analysis and advocacy skills with simulated and real practice. Students will apply the profession's code of ethics and commitment to engaging in policy practice and the advancement of human rights, social, racial, economic and environmental justice at the macro policy level. (S)
Prerequisites: SOWK 3103, SOWK 4201, Admission to upper division or permission of the instructor.

SOWK 4203. Diversity in Social Work Pract. 3-0-3 Units.
Diversity in Social Work Practice integrates the knowledge of learned in SOWK 3101 (Human Diversity) with generalist social work practice. The course will provide student learning opportunities for increasing self-awareness and reflection as a tool for practicing culturally competent interventions. Emphasis will be placed on integration of theory with practice. The course will examine how diversity shapes human experience and dimensions of culture impact social functioning. The course will examine diversity as intersection of factors age, class, color, culture, disability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, political ideology, race, religion, sex, and sexual orientation. Particular emphasis will be placed on culturally competent practice with the largest diversity group common to Northwest Georgia area including Appalachian, Latino and Hispanic populations and African-American client systems. (F)
Prerequisites: Admission to upper division or permission of the instructor.

SOWK 4401. Senior Capstone I. 3-3-3 Units.
The first of a two-course sequence of directed study experience. Capstone is an applied, experiential, collaborative, and community-engaged effort that is grounded in professional social work education. Capstone is designed to demonstrate and evaluate how students have integrated the nine Council on Social Work Education competencies, the program goals of the Dalton State BSW Program, and the knowledge, values, and ethics necessary for future practice as professional social workers. Student groups will begin to work collaboratively to design the outline for a community-based, research informed Capstone Project designed to address one of the Grand Challenges of Social work or an issue of social justice and human rights. The course will include work on the creation of the culminating graduation portfolio. (F)
